

dalston now (2009)

Dalston Mill

Created by EXYZT for the Barbican's Radical Nature exhibition in summer 2009.

This creative intervention on the Eastern Curve was a pre-cursor to the Dalston Eastern Curve Garden and saw the temporary erection of a 16m high windmill with pizza oven.

The site also featured a restaging of pioneering environmental artist Agnes Denes' iconic work Wheatfield – A Confrontation, 1982, where she planted and harvested two acres of wheat in Battery Park landfill in downtown New York.

Images © brice pelleschi & phil rizzotti / exyzt

